Subject: EOCCG Update 9: Planned Truck Demonstration

Good evening,

The situation in the downtown core was relatively stable today with, at the peak, approximately 70-100 people on Parliament Hill and 200-300 people on Wellington and the surrounding streets. There were a few isolated issues throughout the day, including one that has generated social media attention: protesters are constructing a small wooden structure on the Queen Elizabeth Drive between the Laurier Avenue Bridge and the NAC. This is being addressed by the Police and other partners.

More convoys are expected to arrive this weekend although it is difficult to assess scale. Toronto and Quebec City may also be the target of similar protest events. For Ottawa, the one convoy that has been confirmed comprises 60-70 farm vehicles, which will arrive in the City tomorrow and leave Sunday. The vehicles will be parked at the RCGT overflow site. The EOC supported work led by the NCRCC today related to traffic management for the weekend. Currently, the plan is to keep the perimeter intact.

The EOC continues to monitor and support impacts to residents and critical infrastructure. Our hospital partners have indicated that travel to and from the Quebec side on the bridges is very challenging, even when the bridges are open. Healthcare workers are experiencing very long commutes, as are patients (including those seeking chemotherapy and radiation treatments). The EOC is working with Police and others to see if some special measures could be put in place. The EOC is also working with health partners to find hotel accommodations tomorrow, outside the downtown core, for a small group of higher-risk home and community care clients, whose level of care is compromised due to traffic impacts (and safety of healthcare workers entering the perimeter).

The outlook for the weekend is difficult to predict although partners are planning for a potentially higher number of protesters than last weekend, as well as groups of new, counter-protesters. The EOC is currently tracking 3-4 planned events on Saturday, February 5.

The NCRCC is now planning for 24/7 operations until at least February 14.
